“Stepping into New Era – Sustainable Construction Industry”

The construction industry has always played a prominent role in Hong Kong’s development, and it is paramount that capabilities and resources are well managed to sustain this momentum. To tackle major challenges such as high costs, significant construction volumes, declining creativity and innovation, etc. initiatives such as Construction 2.0 helps strengthen and maintain Hong Kong’s established regional leadership position in construction.

To maintain a sustainable industry, we must promote an industry culture that embraces change and innovative new technologies, implement improved professionalism of the industry to improve quality of projects, and continuously nurture young and new talents to the workforce.

Experts from a spectrum of disciplines are invited to this year’s Annual Seminar to share their insights and experiences on how we may move forward as an industry sustainably.
